Giving a toot

The remodeled Romulus Senior High School has reopened and the school marching band members find they have a lot to "blow their horns about." While the varsity football team is sporting a 1-2 record to date, students' hopes are high that the team will turn back to the winning form of last year.

Auto accident kills pair

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

An early morning auto accident in Romulus on Sept. 11 has claimed two lives, the 11th and 12th fatalities for the year.

The latest victim was the driver of the 1992 Chevrolet Lumina, William Donald Griggs Jr., 24, of Brownstown Township, who died Sunday morning at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

An earlier victim of the crash, Bobbie Rae Elliott, 22, of Taylor, died of neck, brain and spinal injuries, at the same hospital a few hours after the accident.

Two other passengers in the car, a 39-year-old Taylor man and 29-year-old Taylor woman, who were thrown from the car, were treated for minor injuries at Heritage Hospital shortly after the accident and released.

According to Romulus police reports, Elliott and Griggs were both flown to the Ann Arbor hospital center because of their intense injuries.

Griggs was pinned in the car by the impact, but was freed by one of the slightly injured passengers, police report, while Elliott, like the other two passengers who were not wearing seat belts, was thrown out of the car.

According to police reports, the Griggs' car was traveling at a high rate of speed on Inkster Road about 2:20 a.m. Sept. 11, as a second car was attempting to pull out of a driveway north of Pennsylvania Road. Police said Griggs then apparently lost control of his car and smashed into a parked auto.

Motorist shoots himself in head

After striking mailboxes and a fence, a 62-year-old Romulus motorist emerged from his damaged vehicle and shot himself in the head.

The victim, Joe Nolan Jr. of Romulus, is currently in the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor in stable condition, according to Van Buren Township Detective Cpl. Greg Laurain.

The incident occurred at approximately 8 p.m. Monday on Huron River Drive near Hannan Road in Van Buren Township.

Witnesses told police that they observed the driver traveling at a high rate of speed through a stop light and across lawns.

When Van Buren Township police arrived on the scene, the located a 1990 Geo which was partially off the roadway and damaged due to striking a fence and mailboxes. As officers approached the vehicle, the motorist pulled out a 32-caliber revolver, raised it to his head and fired one shot, according to the police report.

Nolan was first transported to Annapolis Hospital, Wayne, and later transferred to the university facility in Ann Arbor.

More parental help asked

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Added parental involvement will be one of the main focuses of Romulus Senior High School this year, assistant principal Daniel Hurst said Monday.

Hurst said such involvement is expected to be a major plus for the students, as well as the community as a whole.

Three Romulus parents have been named as coordinators of the program. They are Debbie Callison, Mary Dew and Debbie Dick.

As one example of that involvement, he said, 15 parents of high school freshmen came to the school the Sunday prior to the school opening to acquaint themselves with the remodeled building.

Some of the parents also turned out the day of the opening and helped direct the students through the revised school structure.

"We need to get the parents more involved in the schools," Hurst said, "because it helps defuse many of the erroneous rumors that scurry about town concerning our schools."

Parental involvement will be sought for tutoring, chaperoning field trips, guest lectures, clerical help in classes and Saturday Academy activities.

A special meeting for freshman students' parents is slated for 7 p.m. Sept. 29 in the high school field house. "At that time we plan to give them a tour of the facility, outline the changes in the student policy and to answer questions about school activities and discipline efforts," Hurst continued.

The high school also hopes to expand the "Student of the Month" program, during which time many highlighted students are presented with $50 U.S. Savings Bonds.

Romulus man robbed of car

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus man may think twice before he drives through Inkster late at night again.

Andrew MacDonald told police that a man leaped onto the hood of his 1986 Chevrolet, forcing him to come to an abrupt halt.

MacDonald told Inkster police that he stopped to talk to the individual who leaped on his car when suddenly two other men stepped from out of the dark and approached his vehicle.

The men ordered MacDonald to hand over the keys to his vehicle, and any other valuables he may have on him. After surrendering the keys to the car and his wallet, MacDonald was told to run if he wanted to live.

MacDonald said that he ran to the nearest telephone and called police.

Police said that they are investigating, however, they do not have any suspects.

The incident occurred on Carlyle Avenue near Northland.

Because of the darkness, MacDonald said, he could not get a good description of the men who robbed him, he told police.

Anyone who has any information about the robbery is urged to contact the Inkster Detective Department at 563-9856.

Veteran councilman seeks to get railroad back on right track

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

This is the fifth of six stories on incumbent Romulus City Council candidates seeking re-election this fall. They will be followed by articles on the three incumbents who are not being challenged, Mayor Beverly McAnally, City Clerk Linda Choate and Treasurer Jim Napierkowski.

Veteran Romulus City Councilman Ellis Pennington is seeking re-election in an effort to continue his fight for a number of health and safety issues within the city—particularly the elimination of night time train whistles that he claims keep senior citizens from getting a sound sleep.

Pennington said many auto and industrial companies have spent millions of dollars to improve their product or its image, and yet railroad lines have not spent a nickel to improve their environmental impact on a community.

"I have urged that railroad lines passing through Romulus upgrade both the lights and length of the gates at city crossings," Pennington said, "because the antiquated whistle concept has outlived its usefulness."

most soundproof cars and many also have their radios blaring," Pennington complained, "hence sirens and bells are the least successful tool in alerting motorists to approaching trains."

Pennington has raised the issue numerous times in the past year and said he plans to continue to press the issue, until it is resolved.

Pennington said he has also been a strong backer of the local police and fire departments, but feels Romulus ence in subdivisions and local neighborhoods than it does in curbing speeders on I-94.

"Car thefts remain a constant problem in Romulus," Pennington complained, "Airport hotels should hire their own security agents to patrol the 'park and fly' lots rather than rely on local police."

Pennington also feels that there is no need to change current residentially zoned areas to any other type to attract business or industry. "What we need are more residents in Romulus and to get it we need more and better housing offerings."

After spending a great deal of money on improvements in the Wick Road intersection, Pennington said it appears the city will be paid back.

"Our investment in the Wick Road area will soon be a major commercial plus for the city, as will the long-awaited Heath Point subdivision," Pennington predicted.

The city needs also to continue to work with both Wayne County and the Romulus School District to enhance additional housing starts.

"I presented a motion to change our council meeting time so that it can be at a period not conflicting with the school board meetings, but it was defeated," Pennington said.

"I think that it is important that the two meetings be on different nights so that council members can attend school board meetings when they wish, and the reverse can occur," Pennington added.

"We need to work together, because when people are looking for new homes one of the first questions they ask is about the city's school district," he said.

Pennington, who is retired, feels he is the "work horse of the council." He said, "When I ride about town answering complaints about the city, I return home and find three or four more on my phone answering machine."

"Residents know I respond to their calls, that is why I get so many requests to present their complaints to the administration. And I can say with great candor, Mayor (Beverly) McAnally works hard to correct problems presented to her."

Pennington feels some of the greatest achievements he has accomplished for the city have been:

(1) Getting action on county drains, after having an emergency declared on the problem years ago.

(2) Having traffic signals installed on Goddard Road and Huron River Drive and on Hannan Road at Northline.

(3) Cleaning up Romulus Cemetery.

(4) Having excessive weeds removed from Ozga Road and the I-94 overpass.

(5) Having sound barriers created on I-94 (from Route 275 to Shook Road).

(6) Having parking lot fees assessed to add to city revenue.

Special mothers-in-law sought

She's been the brunt of jokes for years. She's been maligned, slandered, ridiculed and mistreated for years. It's about time for things to change. And change they will with Mother-in-law's Day to be celebrated Oct. 24 this year. If your mother-in-law is someone special, who is the exact opposite of all the cruel comments and stereotypes, let us know and she could be named Mother in Law of the Year in our annual contest. This will be the second year we have solicited nominations and chosen one very special woman for the honor along with two runners-up.

The judges' criteria is simple. Candidates must be nominated by the spouse of their child, and that nomination must tell the judges why this special mother-in-law is worthy of the honor.

Entries will be accepted until Oct. 19 and can be mailed to: Associated Newspapers Mother-in-law Contest, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich. 48184 or dropped off at our office. The winner will be announced in the Oct. 24 edition of the SUNDAY Eagle and Enterprise, be presented a dozen roses, and a plaque commemorating the honor.

So stand up straight, eat all your vegetables, don't interrupt, wear clean underwear and write to us now about the mother-in-law in your life. Remember, brevity is the soul of wit—so limit your praiseful prose to no more than 200 words, or less.

Woman confesses to knowing attacker

A Westland woman, who told police she was raped Aug. 26 by an unknown man, confessed to police after a second alleged rape that the attacker was her ex-boyfriend, Westland Police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

The second incident allegedly occurred in the woman's Glenwood Orchards apartment around 4:30 a.m. on Sept. 6. Shortly after the 33-year-old woman reported the alleged second rape, she told police she knew her attacker, Terry said.

The first rape allegedly occurred around 3 a.m. on Aug. 26 when the victim returned home from work to her apartment and was allegedly grabbed by an unknown assailant in the complex parking lot and raped, Terry said.

"The woman suffered minor abrasions and facial bruises aside from the obvious rape trauma," Terry said following the first alleged attack.

The woman, who originally gave a detailed description of her alleged attacker to police, said she did not tell police the name of the alleged rapist because she was afraid of him, Terry said.

The victim also informed police she had an argument with the alleged perpetrator before she was attacked the first time.

Chamber opens membership drive

A drive to obtain 50 new members of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce was kicked off Tuesday, by drive chairman David Goodwin.

Goodwin, decked out in his "roundup" cowboy hat at the chamber luncheon at the Holiday Inn Crown Plaza, has signed on Bill Crane and Peter Bec, as his team captains.

Goodwin revealed that the current chamber member, who signs on the most new chamber members during the drive, will be awarded a trip for two to Atlantic City, N.J.

A second winner will be selected from the names of the new members for a second set of two tickets to Atlantic City.

The winners will be named at the chamber-sponsored Christmas Party on Dec. 9.

Tailgate party slated Oct. 23

A tailgate party for Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce members is being planned at the Oct. 23 Eastern Michigan University football game.

Chamber President Mark Lewkowicz revealed "we will have a canopy tent set up for food and refreshments. The chamber will be recognized over the public address system."

Those wishing to attend the party are urged to contact the chamber.

Second Chamber directory planned

For the second straight year the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce will be publishing an annual directory of businesses within the city.

The directory will be mailed to each Romulus resident and additional copies will be available at the Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Murder sentencing slated for today

The official sentencing of Daniel Raymond Dowling, 44, formerly a Romulus resident, is slated for today before Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Harvey Tennen.

Dowling pleaded no contest to a second degree murder charge involving the death of Joanne Lincoln on Aug. 28, 1978.

Wayne County Sheriff's detectives charge Dowling fired a shot into Lincoln's head following an argument in the apartment they shared in Romulus.

Lincoln died several days later.

4-H Club may be formed

Sue Jensen, a runner-up in the recent Wayne County Fair-sponsored homemaker of the year contest, is anxious to start a new 4-H Club in Romulus.

For Jensen the 1993 County Fair was a special treat, as she earned 14 ribbons for her various food, plant and sewing projects.

"I didn't think I would win a thing," Jensen said, "and 14 of my 16 entries were awarded blue, red or white ribbons."

This was the first year Jensen entered any fair contests since she was married, and because her two daughters, Jennifer, 10, and Stephanie, 4, got as big a thrill out of the fair as she did this year, she has decided to seek out other parents in the area interested in starting a 4-H Club for Romulus youth.

While many of her blue ribbons came in baking competitions, Jensen hopes to focus on arts and crafts projects for the potential 4-H Club members.

Parents wishing to work on creating such a local 4-H Club are urged to contact Jensen by calling evenings at 941-7298.

300 marchers expected in 1993 Crop Walk

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

More than 300 children, youths and adults are expected to march 10 kilometers on Oct. 3 in an effort to earn money to feed the hungry.

For the 11th consecutive year, six area churches are joining together in the Church World Service-sponsored Crop Walk to collect money to alleviate hunger.

"The 1992 Crop Walk was, by far, the most successful in the 10-year history, and more than $17,000 was collected by 248 walkers," said the Rev. John Hagan of Trinity Episcopal Church in Belleville, Crop Walk coordinator. "Several factors contributed to the 1992 success - reducing the walk from 11 miles to 10 kilometers (6.2 miles), having a gorgeous day and the pain of Hurricane Andrew brought out 25 percent more people than we've ever had before."

The coordinator noted that Belleville and Romulus businesses contributed more than $1,750 to the 1992 campaign. In addition, one Romulus teacher collected $1,300 through pledges.

Hagan hopes the spirit which prompted the dedication and generosity of the participants last year will still be evident in the Oct. 3 march.

"Walk organizers are excited about this year's walk and hope that a 20 percent increase in walkers and pledges can be achieved," Hagan said.

The churches participating in the annual event are Community United Methodist Church in Romulus, Faith United Methodist Church of Denton, and the Belleville area churches: St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Trinity Episcopal Church, United Presbyterian Church and First United Methodist.

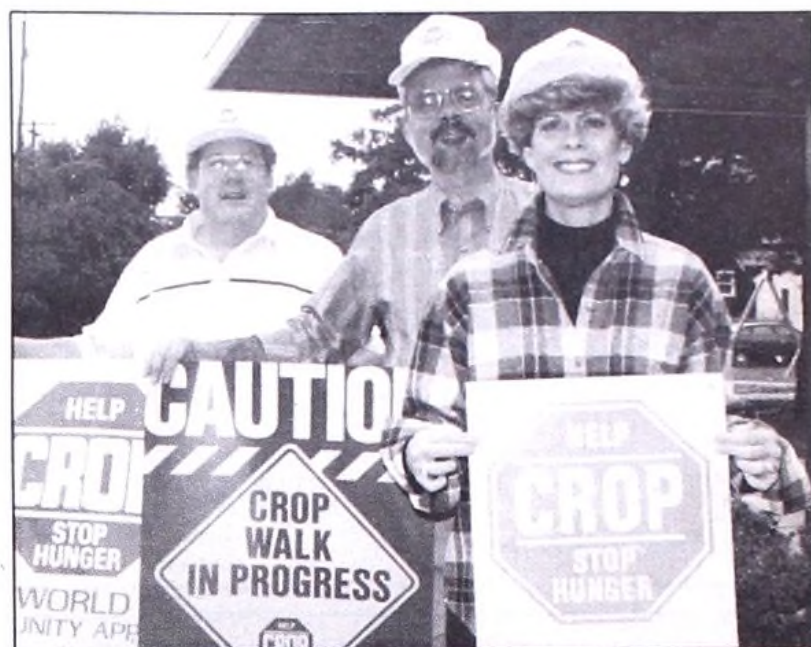

The walk will begin at Community church in Romulus at 1:15 p.m. and marchers will proceed west of Huron River Drive to Belleville Road and then north to Trinity church.

The Belleville-Romulus walk is one of 120 Crop Walks conducted annually throughout Michigan. For the last several years, Michigan has led the country in monies collected through the walks, and in 1992, more than $1.7 million was collected and distributed to alleviate hunger, the coordinator reported.

"One-fourth of the money collected will be given to local organizations, with the remaining funds distributed nationally and internationally," said Hagan. "Area agencies designated to receive moneys in 1993 are Helping Hand in Romulus, Belleville Emergency Food Closet and St. Vincent de Paul in Belleville."

Individuals who wish to join the Crop Walk or make donations may contact Father John Hagan at 699-3361.

Clinton invited to Romulus

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Senior High School Principal Thomas Dolan visited the White House Tuesday to witness President Bill Clinton's signing of a major educational bill.

While he was there, he invited the President to return the favor and visit Romulus Senior High School in the near future and see 21st Century educational technology, which Clinton so strongly supports for schools across the U.S., being used today in Romulus schools.

Dolan and hundreds of others witnessed Clinton's signing of the "America National Service Trust Act" educational bill on the south lawn of the White House.

Before leaving for Washington, D.C., Dolan said he felt he received the White House invitation late last week "because I was one of the educators called to speak earlier this year before Congress in support of the bill."

The Romulus High principal told Congress, "It has become clear that business wants workers who can work as a team, collaborate on problems and achieve consensus in the decision-making process.

"These are skills that are currently not totally integrated into our educational approach, and the Serve America Program is an important vehicle for extending the classroom and making communities places of learning," Dolan said.

Dolan took time to praise the school district partnership program with local businesses, its student-directed peer educational program to outline for fellow students the dangers of AIDS and the high school cross-peer tutoring and peer conflict resolution programs.

Romulus High, he also pointed out, was one of three high schools across the U.S. to receive a grant to do an international study on a current economic or social issue.

Romulus students have selected the controversial North American Free Trade Agreement as their topic and plan to visit Oregon, South Carolina, Toronto and a city in Mexico (possibly Tijuana) to interview youth and local political leaders on the impact of the treaty on their communities.

"We plan to do a lot of traveling, video camera in hand, to obtain these interviews with recognizable leaders such as Clinton, New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley and United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber, as well as students and workers in the cities of the three affected countries," said Romulus teacher Dennis Stroh.

The Romulus students will also do the editing of the video and present it for use on Cable Television C-Span next summer.

"Since Clinton is promoting better technology in the classroom," Stroh said, "we hope that he (Dolan) can entice Clinton to visit Romulus, where he can be interviewed by our students."

Dolan said he hopes that the video would also be of use to various high schools across the U.S.

The other two school districts earning grants for studies were in Portland, Ore. (youth gangs) and Burlington, N.C. (agricultural problems).

Romulus optimist top winner

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Jeffrey D. Spencer, a 33-year-old ex-Marine, currently undergoing substance abuse treatment at the Romulus Salvation Army Adult Rehabilitation Center (ARC), has a new sense of optimism about his personal future.

That confidence received a new jolt last week, when he was named the grand prize winner of a contest in which he explained "Why I'm Excited about Detroit."

As the grand prize winner of the community action support contest, Spencer traveled from Romulus on Sunday to Tiger Stadium, where he threw out the first ball at the Tiger-Cleveland Indian baseball game. He later was presented with the ball and met with former Gov. George Romney, a supporter of the "Excited" campaign.

Spencer and nine other finalists were introduced to the Tiger fans by broadcaster Ernie Harwell. They later led the fans in the traditional seventh inning singing of Take Me Out to the Ballgame.

He also read his winning entry to the Detroit baseball fans, while it was printed on a ballpark electronic scoreboard.

Spencer ironically traces his writing career back to junior high school, when he "use to get in trouble writing stories, when I was supposed to be doing other school assignments."

Spencer found life in Metro Detroit difficult upon his discharge in 1982-83 (at the peak of the auto sales slowdown) and slipped into a life of substance abuse.

But since arriving voluntarily at the Romulus ARC treatment program less than four months ago, admittedly has "gotten a handle on my life" and already has a new enthusiasm about life in Michigan.

In his winning entry,

Spencer said he is convinced a "real renaissance is about to begin in Detroit."

"Our citizens are tired of the blanket of hopelessness and despair that covers our great city," he continued. And thus we "will rebuild our schools, our streets, our businesses and most importantly our spirit, which is happening as I speak."

Spencer added "I'm excited, because there is so much to do, to see and to say so that the world knows we are down but not out."

As a father of three children, who joined him at the Sunday game, Spencer said "I'm proud of Detroit's past, patient with its present and quietly anticipating its glorious future."

Spencer said he hopes that winning the contest will also help him with his writing career. "I just finished writing a fictional story (130 pages long) titled The Man from Reality and hope now it can be published."

Lack of school busing angers many parents

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Residents concerned about the lack of busing to secondary schools were among the more than 150 people who attended the Wayne-Westland school board meeting in John Glenn High School auditorium Monday night.

Some of the concerned individuals suggested alternative ways of cutting district spending.

"Security sounds good -- children might not feel safe in school or on their way to and from school. It's a lot safer for them to get on a bus and go home," Westland resident Tony Spisak said.

Spisak was speaking about a new security program the district is considering which involves the placement of a full-time police officer in Wayne Memorial High School.

Westland resident and district employee Carol Gillentine asked Chief Fiscal Officer Randy Liepa how much the district spends on lawsuits per year. Liepa said district legal costs are a minimum of $200,000 per year.

"That $200,000 would go a long way on our buses," Gillentine responded.

Inkster resident Greg May said some Inkster students don't go to school because they have no transportation.

"A lot of kids just don't go because they don't have a way to get there. If I wasn't on disability there's no way my kids would get to school," May said.

May asked the board why the parents weren't asked if they would be willing to pay for their students to be bused to school. May also said there was a state law that required public schools to provide busing for students who live more than 1 mile from the school.

"If something happens to my kids on the way to school, I will hold each and every one of you responsible," May said.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Larry Thomas said the state law only provides for special education students and emphasized that this was not something the board preferred to do.

"It's not a question of what we want to do -- it's a question of what we can afford," Thomas said.

Trustee Leonard Posey, who also lives in Inkster, said he, too, is transporting his children to school. Posey added that restoring transportation would mean shortening the school day.

"In order to keep transportation, we would have to cut the school day," Posey said.

ROCK n ROLL

Forty years later, the 1950s are experiencing a nostalgic revival in music, fashion and art, and major changes were happening around the globe.

What makes the '50s so fascinating? People were singing Doggie in the Window, Blue Suede Shoes and Rock Around the Clock; viewing the films, The King and I, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof and Anatomy of a Murder. Also during the '50s, Pope John XIII called the first Ecumenical Council since 1870, an oral vaccine developed against polio and the European Free Trade Association Treaty was ratified. The New York Giants moved to San Francisco and the Brooklyn Dodgers moved to Los Angeles.

Jessica Berner, above, exhibits her twisting prize. At the right, a trio of young contestants put their hearts and hips into the twist.

When the Dog Contest ballots were counted, Pam Arrick's prize-winning pup earned a "top dog" title.

Teaching us a lesson

Early this month, teachers in the Plymouth-Canton schools agreed by a vote of their union members to delay a 3-percent salary increase negotiated during their last contract.

We think they deserve a loud round of applause. And, this isn't the first such effort this dedicated group of professionals has made to demonstrate their real dedication to their students and to their vocation. They chose, they seem to realize, to be educators, and they have placed the best interests of their students above the politics and the greed of which so many have accused all teachers. This group has proven that they are, in fact, true educators and professionals.

We have heard nothing but criticism of teachers of late, it seems, so when a group like this takes such a radical step, it seems more than appropriate to laud them for their attempt to take part in the salvation of school programs and the preservation of the integrity of the education offered students in the Plymouth-Canton district.

These people are not all independently wealthy—they work for a living. They teach children, day in and day out. They spend money of their own on supplies and extras for the classroom—we don't know a teacher who doesn't. They spend extra time not demanded by their contract on school projects and extra-curricular activities. They do a great many things for which they receive no compensation other than the satisfaction of doing what they chose to do.

This is the third such cut, freeze or actual reduction these teachers have taken during the past few years during the economic crunch in their district. Three times they have put their salaries on line and offered to share in the economic belt-tightening necessary to continue offering students the best they have to give.

Parents in the district apparently are not as concerned with their children's education as are their teachers. While millages are continuously refused at the polls, these teachers have given up raises and increases to subsidize the district.

That can only be translated into teaching by example. We hope that everyone learns from what they have, as a group, done. And we hope that voters will, when the next millage is proposed, follow their example.

More questions, no answers

This week, the resignation of the court administrator at the 34th District Court in Romulus was announced in a terse, three-paragraph press release.

While that might not usually be cause for comment, this resignation following a six-month paid leave as state auditors probed the finances and practices at the court leaves more questions than answers for the local officials and communities which fund and use the court.

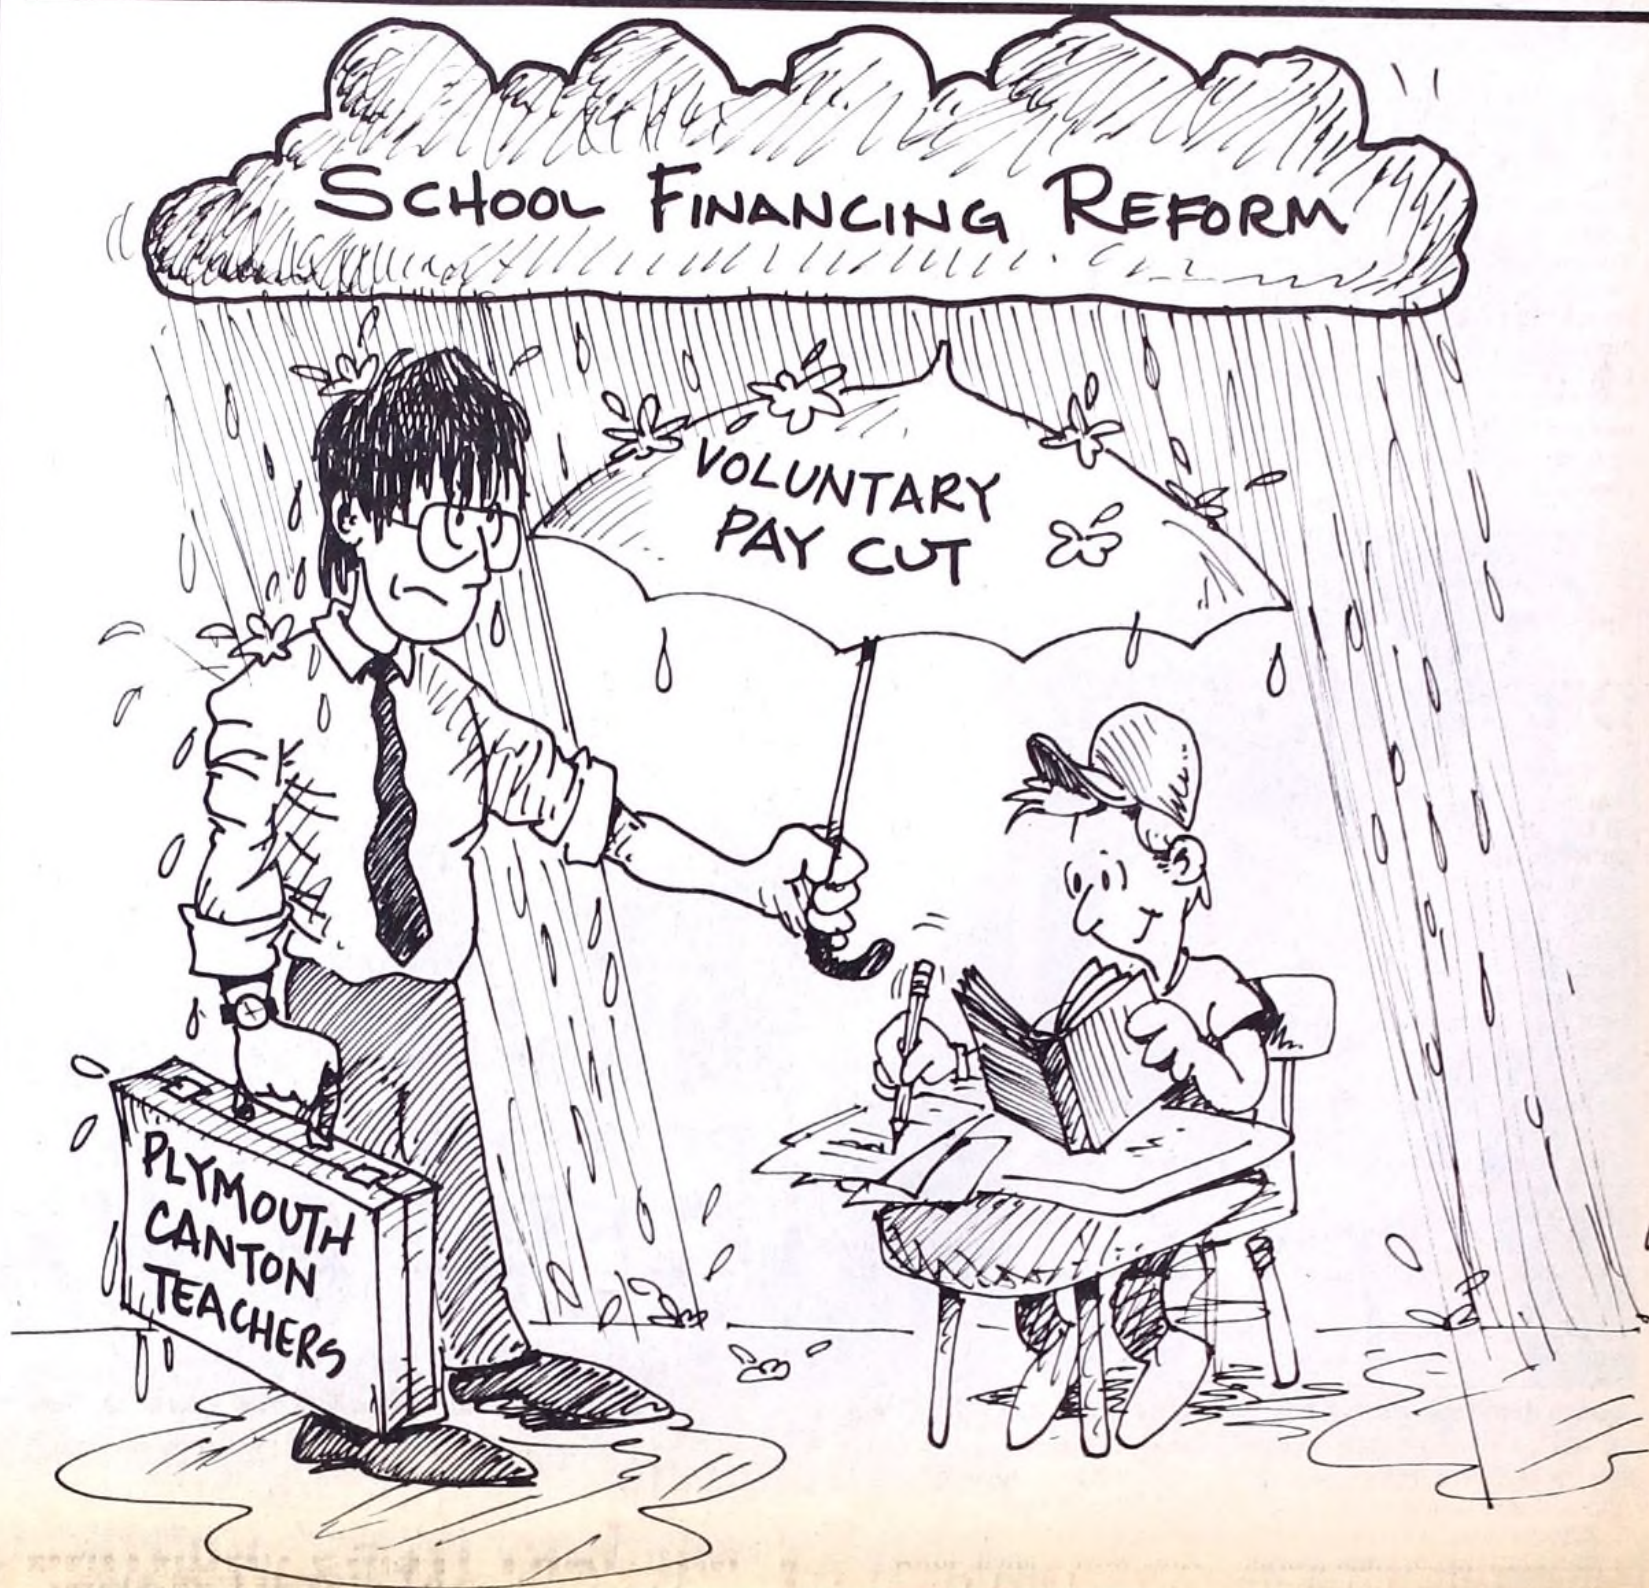

This resignation was announced during the vacation of the presiding judge—so there is no one, or so we are told, to answer any questions regarding the findings of the auditors or the reason for this resignation. There are no results, we are informed, of the audit and the investigation available.

No one knows anything. And the people that do are unavailable. Or so we are told.

We don't think so. We think that it is more than time that the public is informed of the exact findings of this audit. We have demanded full disclosure previously and have not been successful. We would once again suggest that public officials in all the communities served by the court demand, in writing, that this investigation be made public.

If there was no wrongdoing, the judges and administrators deserve to have any suspicion of wrongdoing eradicated from the minds of the public they serve. If there was wrongdoing, it should be corrected and appropriate action taken. It should not be covered up in an attempt to protect the dignity of the court.

We demand full accountability from all involved and we demand it now.

Senior blasts working moms

To the editor:

I saw the controversy of school funding on TV and the lack of busing. I'm sure it might do the children good to have to walk to school. More of their time might be occupied and keep them out of trouble.

I and many others walked miles to school when we were young. As a senior, I know it made us healthier. As to paying for special music and sports, why not have the money from the wives and mothers who are working at these fine careers, and buying these grand cathedral homes with their husband's adequate salary. Let them hire a cab if they don't want to quit their job to drive three kids to school as one woman complained on TV.

There would be far less spoiled and confused children if their mothers were home to supervise and guide them, not to mention more jobs for fathers. But, there will always be those who think more of material things, while others care for their babies. It's coming out more and more in the wild behavior of kids and the increased anger of men.

Wake up before it's too late.

Mayoral debate is criticized

To the editor:

As a concerned citizen I attended the mayoral candidate debate at the Westland Ford Civic League on Sept. 1, 1993. I would like to share a few of my observations with your readers.

Were the candidates given these questions ahead of time? It seemed to me that Mayor (Robert) Thomas was reading from a prepared written notebook. For every question but one, the mayor only had to flip from one page to the next to be able to read his response. None of the other candidates had to read their responses. Too bad his answers were not from the heart, but seemed to be staged and planned ahead of time.

The one question asked regarding how many police and fire department employees drove city vehicles home and how much did it cost taxpayers seemed to really catch the mayor off guard and he did not have a prepared answer. He could only respond that he did not have an accurate figure with him and that he was sure only a few ever drove city vehicles home, and then only for good reasons. Thank goodness Ken Mehl had a chance to respond and let the taxpayers know that several (approximately 35) police employees plus fire department employees and directors do drive city vehicles home and that it is costing the taxpayers an estimated half million dollars for gas, insurance and maintenance.

Let's hope the other five mayoral candidates will take Charles Pickering's challenge and have a real unrehearsed debate so the real truth can be heard! We don't need to hear the same staged garbage, but find out what each candidate really has to offer the citizens of Westland.

Resident claims unions control city politics

To the editor:

The problem with Westland politics is that you can't understand it just by watching the city council meetings and reading the newspapers. To really understand politics in Westland you would have to attend city employee union meetings. In Westland we have government of the unions, by the unions and for the unions. Taxpayers and voters count for virtually nothing.

Elected officials in Westland are put into office by the city employee unions. Without union backing no candidate has a chance of winning. Campaigning consists of a "lawn sign derby" between the various city employee groups and their supporters. It is assumed that the average voter is so stupid and apathetic that he or she will vote for whomever has the most and biggest strategically placed lawn signs. Of course a few phony campaign promises are thrown in for good measure.

Westland voters are not happy campers. Most of us despise and loath City Hall, but we don't know what to do about it. That is why we never re-elect a mayor in this city. Incumbent mayors have what I call the incumbency disadvantage in Westland.

Allowing city employee unions to run and support candidates for elected city offices was the worst thing to ever happen in this state. It effectively closed the people out of the electoral process. City employees need and want control of City Hall. By controlling City Hall they can be assured that there will be no effective separation between labor and management. What passes for management is the union whose candidate won the last election. As the various unions struggle for political control—the taxpayers are treated like children who need to be either pacified or threatened if they become too demanding.

Wake up Westland! Demand that candidates take stands on the issues that really affect you personally—like our ridiculous taxes and our absurd property assessment practices. Don't be diverted by phony issues that count for nothing. Remember all the city employee unions really want is your tax dollars.

You can turn this city around if you demand accountability, efficiency and respect as the price of your vote in 1993.

Senior citizen demands apology

To the editor:

I was watching Channel 8 that was showing the Westland Council meeting that took place on Aug. 16, 1993.

I was appalled to see Mr. Ken Mehl berate our Senior Director Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, saying she was using the Resource Bus and Van for transporting people to the Town Hall meeting on Aug. 12, 1993, when in fact they were at a Tiger Baseball game and did not get back to our Friendship Center until 6:50 p.m.

Some of the people seeing there was something going on inside decided to go into the building. Seeing there was a meeting taking place they stayed. The meeting started at 7 p.m. This was a spur of the moment decision—not pre-planned.

Our director, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, had no knowledge that the people were going to do this. Due to Mr. Ken Mehl's rudeness, I think he owes our director, Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, a public apology. If he was big enough to accuse her on public TV, then he should be big enough to apologize on public TV.

Recreation programs earn resident's praise

To the editor:

The summer of 1993 has been an eye-opening experience for me and my family.

We ventured into the Romulus recreation programs and found a wide variety of things to do. From camping to sports, the Romulus recreation department had a wonderful program in place.

My family took advantage of the Grant Long basketball clinic and kids co-ed softball. My son learned more in three days at the basketball clinic than he did during the whole basketball season last spring. What a great program. The clinic gave him confidence.

The co-ed softball program is a fun program that teaches kids how to play a game and not get caught into the bad sportsmanship that seems so prevalent today in sports. They play and have fun, too. Great.

In closing, check out the Romulus recreation program. You'll be glad you did.

Showtime for Zebras

Wayne Memorial 2-0 league on the block at Monroe

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After a sterling performance against Lincoln Park, Wayne turns its football sights on upstart Monroe.

Coach Chuck Howton's Zebras trampled Lincoln Park 27-0 Friday night before a partisan Wayne crowd for their second straight Mega Conference victory and will place their modest 2-0 conference record on the block Friday night at Monroe.

Monroe is coming off of a hard-to-digest 6-0 loss at the hands of pre-season title favorite Dearborn Fordson, and Howton is quick to point out that Monroe is always dangerous, even more on its home field.

"This is a key game for both of our teams," Howton stressed. "Obviously we need this win to keep our momentum going and title hopes alive. Monroe proved against Fordson that it is a power to reckon with.

"They are big and have plenty of speed. Our defense must be prepared to handle this challenge."

Wayne and freshman quarterback Lorenzo Guess looked good against Lincoln Park, which went into the showdown without their starting quarterback who had apparently drawn a one-game misconduct suspension. After a scoreless first quarter, Guess teamed up with wide receiver Gerald Adams on a 16-yard touchdown pass that gave the hosts a 6-0 lead with 11:35 showing on the second period.

Then, Scott Wetmore kicked his first of three consecutive point-after to lift Wayne to a 7-0 lead.

Within two minutes the Zebras were back on the scoreboard again. This time linebacker Corey McClelland caused a fumble that teammate Mike Kennedy recovered at the Lincoln Park 25. Three plays later, Guess again found Adams free and fired a TD strike at him in the end zone.

Before the half ended, Wayne added a third score to its cushion as Guess and Adams struck with 1:11 left. This time the team combined for a 36-yard touchdown and after Wetmore put the ball through the uprights, the Zebras had a comfortable 21-0 halftime lead.

Guess, who was on target for nine of 18 passes (and three TDs) for 174 of the Zebras' 306 total yards, played an exceptional game, Howton noted.

Adams, with five catches and 109 yards and Jason Overton, who also nabbed three passes for 54 yards, stood in the limelight.

Wayne scored its fourth touchdown in the third quarter when Reggie McCarthy went in from four-yards out. His TD culminated a 40-yard drive ignited by nose guard Calip Ford's fumble recovery.

Guess used his backfield indiscriminately as Willie Bush was called upon 10 times and he rushed for 52 yards. McClelland picked up 45 yards on nine tries and McCarthy had 31 yards on eight attempts.

Vikings, Graves win big

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Quarterback Andre Graves was back at the controls Friday and fired touchdown passes to Maurice Ballard and Alvin White to lead Inkster to their first victory over Willow Run in more than a decade.

Graves had a career high three TD passes and 392 yards as the Vikings shot down the Flyers, 24-14, in a Suburban Athletic Conference matchup.

"We had not beaten Willow Run since 1982," pointed out sophomore coach Vic Calhoun. "Graves was just phenomenal in leading this team."

Graves got the Vikings on the scoreboard on the first play from scrimmage as he combined with wide receiver Ballard on a 87-yard TD toss.

The Vikings missed all four of their conversion attempts.

Then, on their next possession, Ballard and Graves teamed up on an 80-yard strike.

Graves scored one of the two second-quarter touchdowns on a 32-yard keeper. Late in the same quarter, the senior QB picked out tight end Al White for a short over-the-center toss that the 6-9 end nabbed, then broke three tackles and went the distance for an 87-yards score.

Graves, who lost the QB job a week ago, apparently earned a second-chance against the Flyers. He didn't waste it.

Graves connected on nine of 12 tosses and amassed 392 yards and three touchdowns. He also rushed for 45 yards, including a TD.

Ballard had four catches and 185 yards while White also had four receptions and 144 yards.

Calhoun said that Ken Orr and Mark Nichols stood out on defense. Orr, an outside linebacker, was credited with 15 tackles and six sacks while Nichols, an inside linebacker, made 10 tackles and two sacks.

"This victory was well-deserved," said Calhoun. "Our kids showed that they came ready to play."

Romulus running back Phil Franklin (1) seeks a path in and out of the Highland Park defenses after taking a pitchout from quarterback Ryan Evans (10). Parkers even score

Romulus falls to Highland Park

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A year ago, a well-tuned playoff-bound Romulus destroyed Highland Park in a Class A post-season football game.

Friday night the Parkers returned to Romulus with vengeance on their minds. They got it by scoring a 19-9 victory over the Eagles.

"We were in this game right up to the end," said Romulus coach Dan Henry. "We made a couple of crucial turnovers, including an interception, that destroyed our chances late in the game."

With five minutes left for the final whistle, Romulus rallied and came within a touchdown (12-7) of overcoming their early deficit. The Parkers, pinned to their goal line, gave up a safety, then kicked to the Eagles who managed to put together a series that culminated with senior running back Phil Franklin's 22-yard end around touchdown run.

Then Paul Olney successfully kicked the point-after, and Romulus looked as if it was on the road to recovery.

However, Highland Park's senior quarterback Terrance Reed, who was the victim of a handful of sacks a year ago, averted disaster. Reed who had earlier completed a 17-yard touchdown pass to Al Greene - the Polar Bears also cashed in on Michael Webber's 13-yard dash for their second TD - maintained control.

Webber finished the game with 105 yards on 20 attempts against a young Eagle defense that was sparked by strong safety Roy Chambers. Chambers had six tackles and five assists for the evening.

Franklin turned in a superb individual effort, piling up 207 all-purpose yards. He rushed for 155 yards on 29 attempts.

Evans had his problems against the Parkers who picked off three of his misguided missiles. The sophomore quarterback completed six of 17 passes for 58 yards.

It won't be any easier for the Eagles this week. They run up against an undefeated and state-ranked Adrian Friday night on the home turf. Adrian, a former league rival, is presently ranked sixth in the state.

Belleville jolts Wyandotte, 13-3

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It was one game that Belleville coach Bob LaPointe would have enjoyed being on the sidelines for.

But, slapped with a one-game coaching suspension because he argued vociferously with an official about a call during the Fordson game the week before, LaPointe was nowhere to be seen when his Tigers took to the home turf Friday night against Wyandotte.

Despite the obstacle, Belleville gridders responded by breaking a two-game losing streak and winning their first of the 1993 football campaign, 13-3, at the expense of Wyandotte.

It was also the first-ever Belleville victory in the newly-organized Mega Conference Red Division.

"I missed being with the kids and the staff," said LaPointe, whose assistant coaches - Doug Babcock, Sam Villa and Mike Garland - were responsible for the team. "I am elated with the outcome. You are always happy with the first win."

LaPointe will be at his regular spot on the sidelines Friday night when the Tigers clash with Lincoln Park, a team that was shut out 27-0 by a young and bold Wayne team in their last outing.

Truitt, who had problems finding receivers his first game, redeemed himself with a superb performance. In fact, he should pass out some glue to his receivers who dropped passes that had TD written all over them.

Josh Speller and sophomore Ian Gold were the Tiger standouts in the backfield, while the defense thanks to the alert play of Jeremy Williams, who recovered a Bruins' fumble, and Zyers Ruff, who sacked the Wyandotte quarterback for a huge loss when the visitors were knocking at the TD door also turned in commendable efforts.

Tiger runner finishes 5th

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A young and ambitious Belleville girls' cross country team returned from the Huron Invitational on Saturday with a fifth-place trophy.

The Tigers, led by sophomore Tina Harman, trailed invitational title-winner Monroe, Sylvania (Ohio), and North Farmington in the final standings. The local runners compiled 124 points in a field that included 20 other area and out-of-state teams.

Harman also finished fifth and was one of three Belleville runners who were awarded individual medals. Her time for the 5-kilometer New Boston Huron course was 20:50. Teammates Tammie Pietrowski and Amy Pakerwinski - both medalists - were 13th (21:05) and 29th (22:35), respectively.

Other Belleville runners whose times counted in the final tabulation included: Jamie Koren (23:21), Misty Schubert (23:51), Melissa Ackron (24:12) and Katherine Orr (26:37).

Monroe, a state title contender and the last Wolverine "A" Conference champ, won the team championship with 51 points. The Ohio-based Sylvania was a close second (53 points), while North Farmington picked up a third-place trophy thanks to its 73 points.

Rocks fall after rally

Plymouth-Salem will attempt to pick up the pieces Friday night after a shocking last-second loss to Livonia Stevenson.

With no time on the clock - the officials put two seconds back after it was ruled that the Stevenson quarterback had stepped out of bounds before the time had run out and the Spartans went on to claim a 19-14 decision over Salem thanks to a last-pass 32-yard touchdown pass from QB Kevin Szczembara to wide receiver Brad Morgan.

The TD completed an incredible 63-yard Spartan march.

Some 30 seconds earlier, the Rocks did the shocking and rallied to a 14-13 lead with the help of fullback Rob Shepley's 18-yard TD sprint and Bryan Neal's two-point conversion.

Veteran Salem coach Tom Moshimer called the loss "shocking" and "devastating".

"We're presently in total shock," said Moshimer. "I thought that we had it with 30 seconds left. We were in our prevent defense, and you figure that they have two to three plays - but, to their credit, they managed to come back."

Moshimer said his team must also come back this week against a very explosive Walled Lake Central team. The two will meet 7:30 p.m. at Central.

"What has happened has happened, and it's all history now," Moshimer said. "But we must be ready for Friday."

Defense lifts Canton 7-0

After a season-opening loss to Monroe, Plymouth-Canton has come back and strung together two morale-building victories. The latest, a 7-0 defensive gem over Western Division rival, Livonia Churchill.

The Chiefs now face their biggest test of the division when they host defending division and conference champ, Walled Lake Western, Friday night at home.

Western reached the Class A state semifinals a year ago. Although the conference champ has lost many of their key players to graduation, the rebuilt Western team is "a solid ball club", coach Bob Khoenle said.

"They (Western) are 2-1, just like we are at this point. Although some (coaches) have overlooked them as a possible title contender, they are tough. They have quiet a few members of the team that almost went all the way last year in this year's lineup."

Canton found Churchill ready last week. The only score that the Chiefs managed to put on the scoreboard in this duel of defenses came with 30 seconds left in the initial half. And that touchdown went to the defense thanks to John Mogelnicki, a tackle, who recovered a Churchill fumble in the end zone.

Khoenle gave credit to the defense for the victory. He also lauded the efforts of Mogelnicki, Tony DeGiorgio and Richard Crist who led the Scoring all five of their touchdowns in the first half before coach Bob Yauck released his second unit, Robichaud buried Ecorse 32-6 Friday afternoon in the Suburban Athletic Conference football opener for both teams.

With Gerald Rice rolling up 39 of the 50 yards in the initial Bulldog drive, Robichaud got on the scoreboard early as Rice bowled over three would-be Ecorse defenders and went into the end zone from the 22. Quarterback Tom Massey attempted the extra point and his kick was wide.

Massey and Brett Kubitz combined on a 31-yard touchdown pass with 2:38 left in the opening quarter and Troy Wells added the two-point conversion lifting the title-contenders to a 14-0 lead.

The Bulldogs scored three touchdowns in the second quarter as Massey engineered a midfield drive that he finished off with a 5-yard up-the-middle TD run.

With 7:58 left to the intermission, Kelly scooped up a loose Ecorse ball and dashed back 17 yards for the second Robichaud score of the quarter and, with the second unit giving the first a rest, the Bulldogs struck again as fullback Brian Gipson plowed over from the one.

Gipson's TD was set by a Matt Alexander to Kubitz pass that covered 27 yards.

Rice, playing less than two quarters, rushed for 72 yards in six attempts. Massey went to the air four times and found receivers twice for an additional 42 yards and one touchdown. Alexander came through on two of his six passing attempts for 55 yards.

Robichaud's defense held Ecorse to 37-yards rushing and three of six pass completions for 11 yards.

On Friday, Robichaud nemesis Oak Park will invade the Dearborn Heights high school gridiron. The Redskins are 2-1 after losing a heartbreaking 12-8 decision to River Rouge last week.

"This will be our first real test," said Yauck. "Oak Park is awfully big - 260-pounds across the front line. That is what we have to contend with this week. Kickoff is at 4 p.m."

Belleville golfers are off to best start

Picking up a pair of victories last week, Belleville golfers have improved their overall record to 6-1 on the season - their best start in recent years.

Coach Ted Grignon's Tigers

carded a five-stroke victory (175-180) over Garden City in a Mega Conference Red Division test on the home course at Harbour Club.

Although Garden City player Craig Morton was the medalist after turning in a 42 for nine holes, Belleville responded with a pair of 43s by Mike Hans and Mark Hollens.

Jason Howard was one-stroke back with a 44, while teammate Bobbie Krammer finished with a 45.

Changes in the air for cable viewers

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

When she's not overseeing an area cable system, the general manager of Omnicon Cablevision is monitoring the television viewing of her three small children.

Lisa Boland, who grew up watching cartoons and Lassie, finds that her three youngsters enjoy cartoons and children's programs on the Discovery and Nickelodeon channels - and also Lassie reruns.

"We've set down rules for watching since Day One. They know what they can watch, and how much they can watch," said the mother of Dan, 9, Megan, 6, and Katy, 5.

Boland is enthusiastic about the educational opportunities offered on cable television.

"What we need to do is heighten awareness of what is available. There is so much out there, and we need to get the word out," said Boland, whose office regularly sends out notifications to teachers about educational programs. "There is a misunderstanding by some lower elementary teachers that cable programs in the classroom are only for high school students. In reality, there are blocks of commercial-free educational programs every day for their students."

Recently, Boland and other cable systems managers have instituted major changes in rates and programming due to the implementation of the Cable Television Consumer Protection and Competition Act of 1992. New rates went into effect Aug. 31 for Omnicore viewers in Canton Township, Belleville, Van Buren Township and Romulus. Similar changes were made in cable systems throughout the nation.

Some 55 percent of residents in the Belleville area and 65 percent of Canton-Plymouth-Northville area residents are linked to cable television, and the goal of the Omnicon general manager is to bring more viewers into their fold through new and varied programs.

"The 'hot' channels are CNN, ESPN and the Discovery Channel. We're also getting the most requests for Comedy Central," Boland said. "The country music channel, CMTV, which is kind of a country version of MTV also is popular with many viewers."

Boland noted that the future will bring an expansion of cable offering with up to 500 channels, and enable a much greater selection of programming.

"We try to serve the majority of viewers, so we must choose programs that satisfy the masses. This is always going to be a problem for us, because there will be individuals who want to view a certain type of program with limited appeal and we won't be able to offer it to them," Boland said. "For example, some people would like a Spanish or French channel, but, if we included one in our package, we'd get requests from others who would want a German or an Arabic channel. There are so many diverse groups in the area that we cannot satisfy all of them."

Although there is an non-denominational inspirational network available, the cable systems see a danger is carrying a religious network sponsored by one denomination.

"Because of the diversity of the people in our area, by including one religious group's network, we'd have requests from people of all different denominations in our service area for their own programming," Boland said.

"Most of the viewers' requests can be filled in one way or another. For example, there is no separate channel for stage plays, but there are plays on Showtime and A&E. The viewers just have to watch for them," Boland said. "There's also an opportunity to watch old films as well as new movies on cable. Personally, I'm getting a new respect for old movies by watching them on cable."

Boland sees an increase in local programs, more original programming and more interaction with local schools. In the future, more people will rely on cable with interactive shopping and banking, Boland predicted.

"These things are exciting, but I don't know how soon they will be instituted," she said.

Feedback from customers is very important to the Omnicon management, Boland said.

"We listen to what our customers say. Their comments are our main determining factor in our scheduling," Boland said. "We do customer satisfaction surveys and we save every letter and phone call message regarding channels. Those comments weigh heavily on our decisions."

Boland, who is a Michigan State University graduate, majored in telecommunications. She began working for Capital Cities in 1981, and was served as market director of Ohio from 1981 to 1983. She then was promoted to general manager of Omnicon of Michigan, with offices in Canton Township.

Mutt march

Best friends take a hike for Humane Society

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Nearly 300 area residents and their pets participated in the Michigan Humane Society Mutt March 93' at the Nankin Mills Station on Saturday.

Some 276 walkers and their four-legged friends participated in the annual event which generated more than $40,000 for the Michigan Humane Society.

Participants of all ages enjoyed the 5-mile march and 1-mile stroll. Marchers were encouraged to pledge a set amount per mile walked and official T-shirts were awarded to all marchers who collected more than $100.

Humane Society Director of Education Ron Blauet said the march was a success.

"I'm real pleased. There was a good turnout and the weather was nice," Blauet said.

"It wasn't cloudy and it didn't rain. We've had so much rainy weather in previous years we were going to call it the 'mud march,'" Blauet added.

All of the money collected through the event will help pay the operating expenses of the Humane Society, Blauet said, which is completely funded by donations. Fundraisers are planned throughout the year to provide the $4.5 million needed annually to operate the three facilities in metro Detroit which house about 55,000 animals per year, Blauet said.

Other fundraisers include a Mutt March in the spring, dog races and a direct mail campaign, which Blauet said, generates the most money for the Humane Society.

"It's a constant ongoing battle to maintain services," Blauet said.

The Michigan Humane Society is a nonprofit organization which has served animals since 1877. Presently there are three full-service shelters and charitable animal hospitals in the metropolitan Detroit area.

'Bids for kids' benefit planned

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

It's a project which has taken hundreds of hours to put together, but organizers are tireless because their mission revolves around improving the health of children.

Annapolis Hospital officials are organizing a "Bids for Kids" gala celebration Oct. 15 at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza in Romulus. The event is being spearheaded by the Annapolis Hospital Foundation.

Bids for Kids will consist of a dinner plus silent and live auctions with the goal to gather funds in order to support an immunization and prenatal care and education program to prevent illness before it occurs.

Business leaders and Annapolis Hospital officials have identified there is a serious problem facing the children of western Wayne County-their health, according to Carla O'Malley, senior vice president and chief operating officer for Annapolis.

"Our main goal is to have healthy kids," O'Malley said. "From this event we hope to raise a minimum of $100,000. We have found out that nearly 60 percent of the children in western Wayne County (pre-school and younger) have not been properly immunized."

O'Malley said that percentage is surprising because Wayne County provides free immunizations each year for children.

"Either the message about the immunizations is not getting out there or mothers/parents do not have the transportation to get there," O'Malley said. "We want to provide that vehicle to mothers and parents."

"We would like to establish a mobile health care vehicle that will deliver the services to the people who need them in the community."

Jaycees seek members

Their goal is to promote leadership through community service. Although their intentions are receiving recognition, the Wayne Jaycees are in need of more membership or their mission could be lost.

"In order to be a Jaycee chapter, you have to have 20 members," said Debbie Kehrer, district director for H-2 division of Jaycees. "We have 32 now, but we're expecting to lose some. This month there are 20 members needed."

Jaycees consist of individuals 21 to 39 years old who enjoy assisting the community through various activities.

"I've been with the Jaycees for 15 years, and it's really a lot of fun. We just needed people to get involved."

Membership dues are $45 a year for newcomers. Anyone interested in joining can contact Kehrer at 595-0659.

It's one hard working dollar, anyway you slice it.

The money you give to the United Way helps fund almost 140 charitable agencies. So every dollar works hard helping to house the homeless, feed the hungry and shelter the abused here in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. And that's just for starters. Your dollar also helps fund medical care and research, provides family counseling, job training and much, much more. More people than ever before are counting on your dollars. So won't you please give more of them to the United Way? Because, of all the needs we face in the tri-county area this year, the biggest one of all is your support.

Still the best way to show you care.

It's showtime

Local cable show marks 4th anniversary

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

He didn't set out to become a media personality. But, with the success of Wednesday Report:Live on Omnicom Cable television, R. William Joyner has become just that.

Canton High School students operate the cameras and produce the local cable access show. Next week will mark the debut of the fourth year of the show which reaches 36,000 homes in Canton Township, Plymouth and Northville, explained Joyner who is also executive director of the Canton Community Foundation.

The Canton Community Foundation, founded in 1989

by Joyner and Tom Yack, supervisor of Canton Township, is a charitable foundation which provides funds to be used in the community for support of the arts, counseling services and scholarships.

Feeling the necessity to keep Canton residents updated about community events, Joyner and Yack determined cable access was the best way to inform residents at no cost.

Omnicom Cable offered Joyner a channel and an engineer to assist with the production while high school government teachers provided students to work the set.

With no previous experience, students are trained half an hour before the first show.

"We throw them right in the position, it's the best way to learn. By the second week, they're pros," Joyner claimed. "We've had over 400 students fulfill their 20-hour community service requirement here," explained Joyner, "now we're getting the siblings of previous students."

Wednesday Report:Live started as a 30-minute program one night a week, said Joyner. As the program evolved, half way through the second year, the program was extended to an hour show which aired two nights a week - Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. and Friday at 7 p.m.

Joyner, who interviews the guests, felt the hour show was a little long for him to handle alone. "I love to talk, but I'm not too comfortable doing an hour show, so I asked around to see if someone would be willing to share the responsibility with me."

Beginning last January, Plymouth City Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury joined Joyner on the set. Today, Joyner opens the show and introduces the guests, while Shrewsbury shares his views on the topic of discussion.

As the program evolved, people were encouraged to sit in on the show and watch how a program was produced. "Now people don't have to drive to Detroit or Southfield to see how a program is produced," Joyner emphasized. In Canton, audience members can watch a production and eat pizza, donated by local pizzerias, with the cast and crew once the show has finished.

Dr. Karen E. Siupik, a 1993 graduate of Life Chiropractic College in Marietta, Ga., has joined the practice of Dr. James W. O'Dell in Westland. Siupik worked as a chiropractic assistant in O'Dell's office from 1986 through 1989 prompting her pursuit of a career in chiropractic medicine. She earned her bachelor of arts degree in biology from Wayne State University. The office is located at 1214 South Wayne Road and is accepting new patients.

Due to the success of the program, there has been talk of airing a third night. However, Joyner said, that would not happen until next year at the earliest.

Enthusiasts gather to view classics

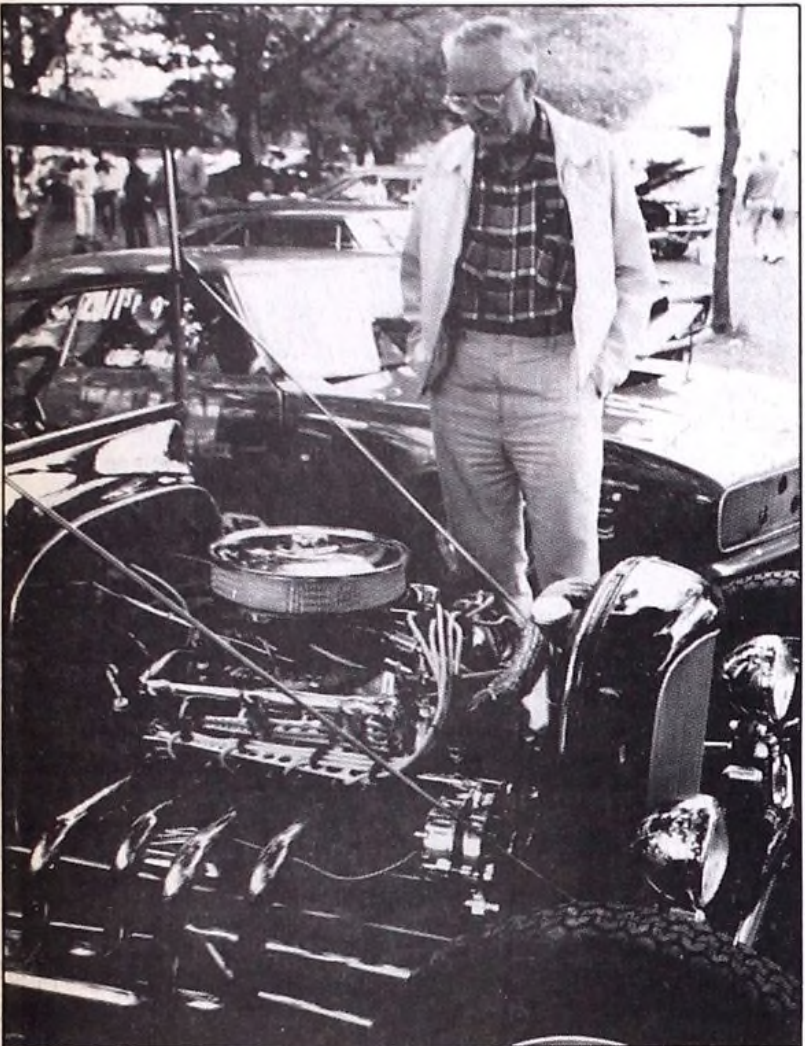

When the annual Westland Chamber of Commerce Car Show and Swap Meet was announced, it didn't take organizers much to realize that there would certainly be a crowd of local auto enthusiasts on hand to take a look at the classics, the kit-cars and the restorations. Not to mention the swap meet where car parts of nearly every age and make were available to meet the needs of the discerning auto buff.

While the stormy weather of the day did reduce attendance somewhat, organizers said, it buff.

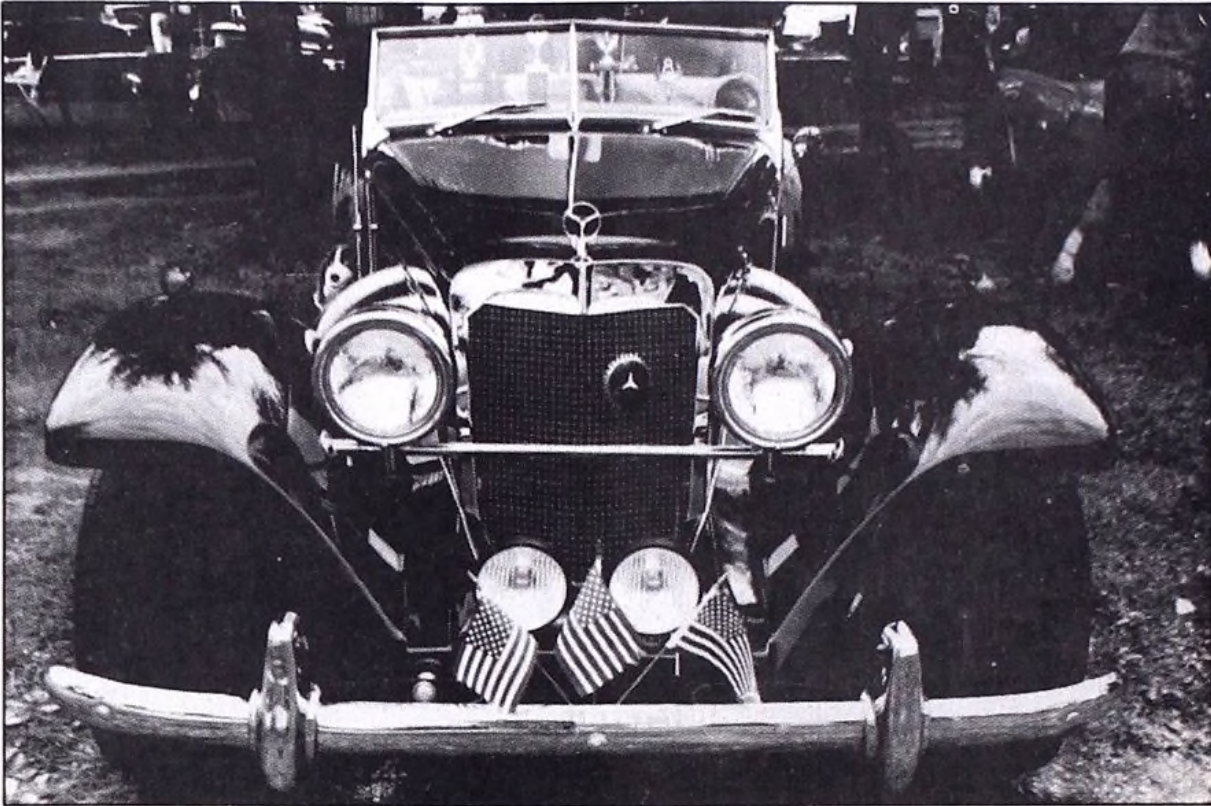

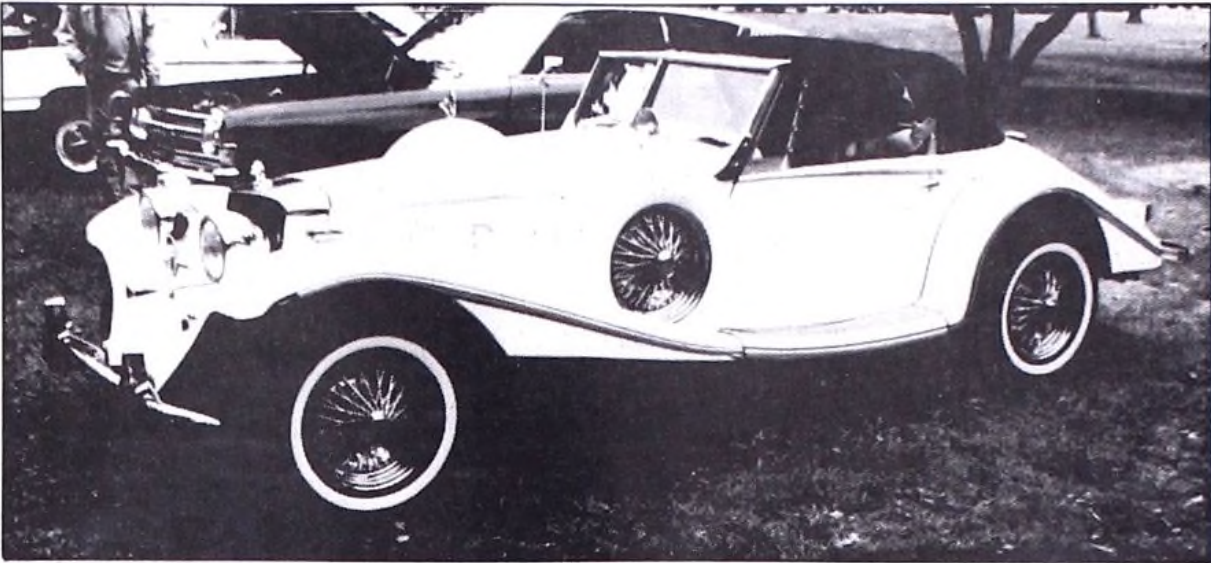

While the stormy weather of the day did reduce attendance somewhat, organizers said, it was still evident that this is an event that attracts a great deal of interest throughout the community. Next year, they're hoping for sunny skies to make the show and swap meet an even greater success.

A 1964 1/2 Mustang owned by Roger Smead of Inkster caught the attention of the crowds during the auto show and swap meet in Westland recently. The mustang is in prime condition and used to the covetous glances it receives. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

Suspect arraigned for child molestation

A 47-year-old Ypsilanti man was arraigned Tuesday on the charge that he fondled a 5-year-old Romulus girl on Sunday, after enticing her to visit an area near his parked travel trailer.

Romulus police charged James Leo Cristobal, 47, with second degree criminal sexual conduct. He was arraigned in the 34th District Court before Judge William Szlinis and released on $10,000 cash bail. A pretrial hearing is slated tomorrow in the 34th District Court.

Cristobal is accused of enticing two young girls to a construction area on Burton Street in Romulus and sexually touching the 5-year-old.

Cristobal faces up to 15 years in prison if he is convicted of the crime.

Westland man receives sentence

A Westland man was sentenced earlier this month to 20 to 30 years in prison on armed robbery charges and assault with intent to rob while armed before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Ann Jasper.

The lengthy prison sentence for John Ray Davis, 41, is a result of a conglomeration of three separate felony cases, according to court officials.

Davis robbed the Tubs and Tumblers in Wayne at 12:45 a.m. April 19 allegedly with Tina Longo (alias Dawn Davis), according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

Davis pleaded guilty Aug. 18 before Jasper. Longo is expected to appear in Recorder's Court Jan. 24, 1994.

Both suspects were arraigned May 5 in the 29th District Court on charges of armed robbery.

"They took cash from the night clerk at gun point," Drews said. "They were arrested by the Michigan State Police. Other police departments including Canton and Taylor have armed robbery charges pending for them."

Longo received a $100,000 cash bond, and Davis received a $200,000 cash bond. Drews said Davis has a lengthy criminal record with armed robbery and has already spent several years in prison on previous armed robbery convictions.

Examination scheduled for Inkster man

A Sept. 22 examination has been scheduled for an Inkster man charged with larceny from a person before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Cameron Lee Fitts, 31, allegedly was allowed into an apartment in the Parkside Vista establishment in Wayne at approximately 8 p.m. Sept. 12, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"Once inside the apartment he tried to take off the dress of a 15-year-old girl," Drews said. "He ended up taking a gold chain the juvenile was wearing around her neck."

Once the incident was reported to police, officers were able to locate Fitts at Mildred and Michigan. Drews said Fitts has a criminal history.

2 accused of execution-style killing

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A 22-year-old Westland man may have been executed because he recognized one of two men accused of killing him.

David Wrobbel, the target of a robbery, was killed during the early morning hours of July 27 with a single bullet to the back of his head because he apparently knew one of the defendants accused of slaying him, according to testimony offered Wednesday in 22nd District Court.

The defendants - Charles Henderson Jr., 24, of Harding Street, Detroit, and Lorenzo Eldred Rhea, 23, of Inkster - in statements that amounted to confessions - told police that they had forced Wrobbel at gunpoint to accompany them to a motel on Michigan Avenue.

After learning that he had no money and believing that the victim had served time in prison with them, they decided to kill him.

After the nearly 2 1/2 hours of testimony on Wednesday, Judge Sylvia James ordered Henderson and Rhea to be held, without bond, until their arraignments in Frank Murphy Hall of Justice on first-degree murder charges.

After learning that he had no money and believing that the victim had served time in prison with them, they decided to kill him.

Henderson and Rhea will appear in circuit court for their arraignments on charges of premeditated murder, attempted robbery and felony firearm. The date and time for the defendants' next court appearances are 9 a.m. Oct. 6.

Henderson's attorney, Mark H. Magidson, and Rhea's counselor, Mary Ellen O'Connell over the objections of Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Michael E. Wagner argued unsuccessfully that their clients had been coerced into making statements to the police and were without legal representation at the time the defendants had agreed to sign them.

However, Inkster Detective John McGruder told the court that each of the two defendants were advised of their rights and willfully offered the information on their specific roles in Wrobbel's killing.

Wrobbel's body was discovered July 27 on the south side of the city, at the LeMoynes Gardens Housing Projects, an area noted for drug trafficking. However, the body was not identified until July 30 when the victim's father appeared at the Inkster Police Department and asked whether his son had been incarcerated there.

Officers directed the father to the Wayne County Morgue where a positive identification was made.

According to court testimony, the defendants were arrested on an anonymous tip to the police by a police informant. Henderson was picked up on Aug. 25 when he reported to his parole officer.

Magidson argued that the reliability and the credibility of an informant didn't provide "prob-

Dream home is a nightmare

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

When the Hoagland family moved into their new home in Van Buren Township in 1989, it should have been the realization of their dreams. Instead, the house has become a continuing nightmare.

Cracks appeared in the walls and ceilings, nails and screws hung from the ceilings, drywall fell, floors were uneven and doors would not close, the owner said.

"Upon moving into our new house, it was very apparent that something was structurally wrong, yet we had passed very inspection by the township," said Ruthann Hoagland. "Now, three-and-one-half years later and after spending many dollars in attorney fees and expenses, our home is still in need of major repair and its value is half of what it should be. It appears that we have no recourse."

Hoagland, who is a teacher in the Wayne-Westland School District, resides in the 28-by-50-foot, two-story house on Savage Road with her brother, Glenn, and their elderly mother.

"It has been very difficult for my mother, who is an Alzheimer patient," she said. "Things have been in a constant upheaval, and that is very hard on people with her condition."

Their dilemma began when the family decided to replace their old house with a "dream home" on the seven-acre plot that the family had owned since the 1930s. They approached a local lumber dealer and requested the names of contractors who he would recommend to build the home. From the list, they selected a Milan contractor.

"I thought I did all the right things, but I feel betrayed. I feel like a fool. I expected when I submitted plans, paid the required fees and the home passed every inspection that things would be right," Hoagland said. "Hopefully, the experience will enlighten others as to what can and does happen when you build a home with an unethical contractor."

First, they discovered that the cracks and nail-popping were the result of an inadequate poured pad under the house. Next, they found that the industrial-strength laminated beam that should have been placed under the house had been replaced with three 2-by-8s nailed together and shimmed with particle board without their knowledge or approval," Hoagland said, adding that further investigation revealed that they do not have a header on a 28-foot-long load-bearing wall.

"We consulted a structural engineer and were told that this inadequate beam would not hold the house, and it would be necessary to reinforce the three 2-by-8s with steel channels," Hoagland said. "We expected the builder to pay for the work, but the builder went bankrupt. After three-and-one-half years during which many forms and letters were filed with the state, we were able to have his building license suspended. This is some consolation, although I am concerned that he may be

Local man faces murder charge

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

The first-degree murder charge for a Romulus man was changed to open murder Sept. 22 during an examination before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Bond was not set for William Mario Johnson, 25, who is expected to appear for an arraignment on information Oct. 6 in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court on the murder of Wayne resident Marvin Steiner.

Prosecuting attorney Charles Sellers and defense attorney Angela Palmieri presided over the case.

During the examination, Sellers informed Archbold that Robert Vass found Steiner's body on Belle Isle Sept. 4. He also stated that a dentist was able to match teeth marks found on the defendant to Steiner.

The prosecuting attorney called Wayne police Sgt. Chris Johnson to the witness stand to describe the interrogation process Sept. 9 with the defendant at the Wayne Police Department earlier this month.

Johnson stated the interrogation began in the afternoon and continued through the evening hours.

"We continued the interrogation until 6:40 p.m.," Johnson said. "At that time we stopped because it is our policy for our people to be able to get something to eat. He talked to me freely. The interrogation continued at 10:30 p.m. and lasted until 12:30 a.m. Sept. 10."

Sellers then read part of the statement Johnson provided to the Wayne sergeant during the interrogation.

"I was behind him and had him in a headlock," Sellers read. "I wrapped a fan cord two times around his neck. I saw his head turning blue. I unwrapped it right away."

From the statement, Sellers informed Archbold that an argument allegedly occurred outside of Steiner's home in Wayne. When Steiner went inside his home, Johnson followed, according to the statement.

Johnson was arraigned

Victim of sexual misconduct testifies

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A 35-year-old Inkster High School assistant track coach and part-time Inkster Recreation Department employee was bound over Wednesday for trial on sexual misconduct charges involving a 14-year-old Detroit student.

After a two-hour hearing Wednesday afternoon in 22nd District Court before Judge Sylvia James, the defendant was ordered to stand, mis-Inkster Recreation Complex during the early morning hours of Aug. 30 and "because she was scared" had sex with Bailey.

The victim, a Detroit high school freshman who is a member of the Cobra Track Club, told the court that she was scared and frightened. She said that Bailey was one of her two track coaches.

During her nearly two hours on the stand, the witness appeared timorous and fidgeted. Near tears during most of her testimony, the witness looked straight ahead and appeared apprehensive when asked to look at the defendant. She did so only to identify him when asked to do so by the prosecutor.

At one point in the testimony, Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Michael E. Wagner moved away from microphone and asked the 5-foot, 3-inch tall witness who weighs less than 100-pounds to look at him and to speak up.

The witness proceeded to tell the court, cleared of spectators by James because of the sensitivity of the testimony, how on the night of Aug. 30 she had phoned her coach and agreed to meet with him.

She said that Bailey met her near her home in northwest Detroit, drove her to the recreation center where he used keys to enter the building. She said that Bailey opened the facility, turned on some music, then took her into an office where he had sex with her at least four times during approximately a 2 1/2 hour period.

When asked by the prosecutor to explain where and how she was touched, the girl hesitated and did not answer.

After an uneasy moment, despite James' efforts to get the witness to answer the prosecutor's question, the witness continued to sit in silence. The judge summoned both the prosecutor and defense attorney to her bench.

RATINGS WAR

Networks compete for top show

Reviewer unimpressed with 'NYPD' debut ABC

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Excitement about the debut of NYPD Blue was at fever pitch prior to Tuesday night, but the opening show was a yawner.

For several weeks, the public has been teased, tantalized and titillated about the raw language and explicit sexual content of the upcoming series. There was so much pre-show type, in fact, that a backlash of conservatives prompted a few channels to cancel it even before it aired.

What could be so offensive, we wondered? How far would the sex scenes go? What language - never heard before - would we hear during the program? In other words, how outrageous would this new series be? Answer: Not very.

First, the good news. Actors David Caruso and Dennis Franz are terrific. There is good chemistry between the partners, and it's bound to get better as the series develops.

I'm a Franz fan from the days of Hill Street Blues, and his role is similar in this "brand new" series. He's tough, street-wise, not above stepping over the line or bending the rules. Franz is, as one co-worker aptly said, is the kind of guy you'd like with you when things get tough. But, his character is also burned-out and dealing with a heavy-duty alcohol problem.

Caruso is believable in his role as a detective whose wife is divorcing him (she can't stand the pressure of being a cop's wife) and who is attracted to an understanding patrol woman. Ah ha, here's where the bit of nudity is introduced in a bedroom scene between Caruso and Amy Brenneman. However, it is nothing that cannot and has not been seen on television before.

In fact, I've seen more flesh while speed-zapping channels one afternoon and viewing glimpses of the daytime soaps.

And, as for the language, it's vulgar and nasty, but not shocking. Again, it is the same type of language routinely used on television or in the films aired on cable channels, which is not to say that makes it right. Personally, I'd like to hear less profanity coming from my television set.

Franz grabs his crotch in the same manner as I've seen Michael Jackson, Eddie Murphy and countless other performers do in television specials and films. I didn't care for the gesture then, and I don't care for it now, but the shock value disappeared several seasons ago.

Now for what really bugs me - the hand-held cameras that are supposed to give the show a "being there" look. Instead the jerky camera movements create a choppy, disjointed effect, and, may I also add, a somewhat amateurist quality.

P.S. If you're a cop show fan, give Bakersfield, P.D. a chance. Its not provocative or sensational, but it's good for some laughs and the kids can watch it, too.

Youngsters stick with the oldies

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Although some people look for a little variety in their lives to keep things interesting, one Canton Township resident is sticking by the "oldie but goodie" theory when it comes to preferred television shows.

Despite the television network attempts to draw in new viewers with a new and improved fall line-up, 8-year-old Nathaniel Novak remains unimpressed. He would rather be watching his old favorites. "I like Captain Planet, Batman and the Looney Tunes," Novak confirmed, "they're awesome."

A first grade student at Field Elementary School, Novak said he likes adventures and channel 50, WKBD, offers him that adventure with shows like Mighty Power Rangers and Ani-maniacs. "Mighty Power Rangers are the best because they can turn into bigger, mighty robots who never lose the battle," said Novak, "but if they lost, I'd have to help them."

As a new student, Novak admitted that he liked school, but he would rather be at home watching cartoons or playing. "Sometimes we get to watch shows in school, but I don't remember their names. We don't watch cartoons though," Novak stated.

Other shows making Novak's list of favorites include: Home Improvement, Barney and Mutant Ninja Turtles. "Donatello and Leonardo are my favorite turtles because they have the best weapons," commented Novak.

On occasion, Novak also watches The Simpsons, but only when his mother can watch it with him to make sure it is not too much for an 8-year-old.

Novak likes cartoons so much that he hates going to bed early and wakes up early on the weekend to watch them. "Sometimes I get up at 6 or 7 in the morning," he indicated.

With the library of cartoons Novak is familiar with, one might think he watched television from morning to night, seven days a week. Cathy Novak, Nathaniel's mother, stated otherwise. "He doesn't watch television as much as he says. I only let him watch television for an hour after school, 15 minutes before he goes to school in the morning and on Saturdays," she said.

It's a diverse assortment of new shows that will make viewers laugh, smile or change the channel.

This fall television network honchos have decided to throw their best show in the ratings ring with the hopes that it will remain standing when it's time to carve the turkey.

Townsend Television spins off Sunday night entertainment at 7 p.m. on Fox as actor/filmmaker Robert Townsend has his own hour-long variety show series.

At 8 p.m. the popular super hero is back in the new flick Lois and Clark: The New Adventures of Superman on ABC. Lois Lane is the average girl next door trying to be a 1990s superwoman. Clark Kent is Superman who would like to be an average guy. The two work together at The Daily Planet.

On NBC at 8 p.m. Seaquest DSV plunges into the ratings as Steven Spielberg's futuristic undersea adventure series. Roy Scheider stars with Stephanie Beacham, a bottlenose dolphin called Ensign Darwin and computerized special effects.

Beatrice Berry, a stand-up comedian with a Ph.D., gets her own talk show 9 a.m. on 13 and 10 a.m. on 5 Monday through Friday.

Late Night with Conan O'Brien takes off at 12:35 a.m. on NBC. O'Brien is a former NBC writer for Saturday Night Live and The Simpsons.

At 8 p.m. Tuesdays, Saved By The Bell: The College Years is a sequel to the daytime show about three buddies.

Bakersfield P.D. is at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday on Fox. D.C. detective Paul Gigante (Giancarlo Esposito) moves to a California town and gets white-bread Wade Preston (Ron Eldard) for a partner.

Phenom is getting some laughs at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on ABC with Judith Light leading the star lineup. Her teenage daughter on the show is Angela Goethals who portrays a tennis star. William DeVane plays her overbearing coach.

The controversial police show NYPD heats up the late evening hours on ABC at 10 p.m. Tuesday. The show revolves around two characters: detective John Kelly (David Caruso), a red-haired department veteran going through a painful divorce, and Andy Sipowicz (Dennis Franz), his hotheaded, battle-fatigued partner.

Romance is in the air with Moon Over Miami at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday. Filmed in Miami's south beach, this new show stars Ally Walker and Bill Campbell as contentious detectives.

Sinbad is on Fox 8:30 p.m. Thursday. Bachelor David Bryan becomes a foster parent.

At 9 p.m. Thursday on 20 and 4 p.m. Saturday on 45 Cobra stars Michael Dudikoff who plays an ex-navy SEAL who is working to get justice for crime victims.

Grace Under Fire is on at 9:30 p.m. Thursday on ABC. Brett Butler is a divorced mom with wit and fire.

Cheers star Kelsey Grammer gets his own television series as Frazier 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Momnies enter the television ring 9 p.m. Saturday on NBC. Two real-life suburban moms, Marilyn Kentz and Caryl Kristensen, play neighbors.

At 9:30 p.m. Saturday on NBC Cafe American heads the new shows with Valerie Bertinelli portraying Holly Aldridge who moves to Paris and gets a job at the English-language cafe.

Late night battle begins

Late night television has taken on a new twist with David Letterman changing stations last season, a new host on the Tonight Show and new shows including Chevy Chase and Late Night with Conan O'Brien.

Local high school teens are generally choosy about which late night shows they watch. And with the new fall line-up, they have the choice of watching Chevy Chase (WKBD-TV50) from 11 - midnight, The Late Show with David Letterman 11:30-12:30 a.m. (WJBK-TV2) or the Tonight Show (WDIV-TV4) from 11:30 - 12:30 a.m., Late Night with Conan O'Brien (WDIV-TV4) from 12:30 p.m. - 1:30 a.m.

John Glenn High School student Jason Duffield, a 16-year-old Westland resident, likes all of the late night shows he's watched, but his favorite is the Chevy Chase Show.

"It (Chase show) seems modern. I think he's hilarious and there are a lot of good guests," Duffield said.

When Chase's first shows aired, however, Duffield was not pleased with the show.

"It seemed like he was too nervous," Duffield said.

Duffield said he also enjoys David Letterman because of his natural ability to make people laugh.

"He's just hilarious. The whole show is spontaneous," Duffield said.

Duffield said he doesn't watch the Tonight Show with Jay Leno as much as he used to because of the time change with the Letterman show. Duffield also watches Arsenio Hall occasionally, but has never seen the Conan O'Brien show.

Jason Dazio, a 17-year-old John Glenn High School student, said his favorite show is the Tonight Show with Jay Leno. Dazio said he grew up watching the show and continues to be a faithful viewer despite the change in hosts.

"I'm really loyal -- it's the best quality show," Dazio said.

Dazio said he likes the Tonight Show because he understands the jokes better than those told in some of the other late night shows.

"The jokes are aimed more toward my age group," Dazio said.

Dazio, a Westland resident, said he watched the Chevy Chase show once and really liked it.

Wayne Memorial High School sophomore Dale Posey said one of his favorite late night talk shows is Arsenio Hall, but with the new late night show lineup, Posey is watching more of the Chevy Chase show now.

"I used to watch Arsenio a lot. I like the people he has on and the band," Posey said. Posey enjoys Chase's television debut series.

"It's pretty cool how he has the window with the fish in the background," Posey said.

Posey said he also enjoy the different kinds of guests who appear on the Chevy Chase show.

"He (Chase) had a guy on the show that ate hot dogs for a living," Posey said.

Wayne man admits to marijuana possession, eluding police

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Wayne man pleaded guilty to resisting arrest, obstructing police and possession of marijuana in a June 20 tri-city car chase in which two parked vehicles and a house were damaged.

James Glenn Neal plead guilty to the charges during a Sept. 21 pre-trial hearing before Detroit Recorder's Judge M. John Shamo.

Neal's parents posted the initial $20,000/10 percent bond and Neal will face sentencing Dec. 3.

The incident occurred when Westland police officer David Heater attempted to arrest James Glenn Neal around 7:30 p.m. during a routine Van Born Road traffic stop for driving 64 mph in a 50 mph zone, Westland Officer Jim Dexter said. During the traffic stop, Heater discovered drug paraphernalia, marijuana and that Neal was driving with a suspended license, Dexter said.

When Heater attempted to handcuff the 6-foot-tall, 240 pound man, Neal escaped his grasp and pushed the officer away telling him he "was not gonna be arrested," Dexter said.

Neal got back into his vehicle, backed into the officer's patrol car and fled westbound on Van Born Road beginning a police/suspect chase which took Neal and other officers through the cities of Westland, Wayne and Romulus.

The chase ended in Wayne when Neal's car began smoking and could no longer be driven. While traveling southbound on Hayes Street, Neal jumped out of his car while it was still running and the car struck a house on Hayes Street in Wayne, Dexter said.

During the chase, Dexter said, Neal hit two parked cars and threw out three small plastic bags of marijuana, which were later recovered by police.

Neal could face up to two years or a $1,000 fine for resisting arrest and obstructing police, one year and/or a $1,000 fine for possession of marijuana and a minimum of 30 days up to one year in jail, a $1,000 fine and license suspension of one year for fleeing and eluding police.

Westland man arrested for illegal entry

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

A 24-year-old Westland man is spending his days in a Canton Township jail cell awaiting his Oct. 1 court examination date.

Michael Alan Pratto was arrested and arraigned Sept. 20 by Canton Township Police for breaking and entering a local residence.

A resident on the 7500 block of Corbett told police he was asleep on a downstairs couch when a noise from his upstairs bedroom woke him at 2:47 a.m. The 25-year-old Canton resident followed the noise and found a suspect dressed in a white shirt and black pants searching through his closet with a flashlight.

According to police reports, the victim attempted to subdue Pratto and was hit in the face.

Police reports indicate the intruder fled the bedroom, damaging the garage door as he exited the residence. As the victim pursued the man out the garage door throughout the subdivision, he instructed his mother to contact the police.

The victim returned to the house after losing sight of the man and gave Canton Township police a description of the intruder. The victim told police all the doors and windows of the residence were locked when the man broke into the house, possibly through a rear sliding glass door.

Following the interview with police, the victim was transported by a rescue unit to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia where he was treated for a bloody lip, swollen face and severe asthma condition.

Canton Township police officers continued the search for the intruder, assisted by Plymouth and Plymouth Township police officers.

After leading police on a chase throughout the subdivision, police located Pratto laying face down in a backyard on the 43000 block of Rygate.

Pratto was searched, handcuffed and transported to the Canton Township Police Department. Bail was set at $15,000 in the incident.

Annapolis Hospital organizes health benefit for children

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A project to assure the health of children is in the works, and organizers are working hundreds of hours to make sure the message is heard throughout western Wayne County.

Annapolis Hospital officials are organizing a "Bids for Kids" celebration Oct. 15 at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza in Romulus. The event is being spearheaded by the Annapolis Hospital Foundation.

Bids for Kids will consist of a dinner and silent and live auctions with the goal to gather funds in order to support an immunization and prenatal care and education program to prevent illness before it occurs.

Business leaders and Annapolis Hospital officials have identified a serious problem facing the children of western Wayne County—their health, according to Carla O'Malley, senior vice president and chief operating officer for Annapolis.

"Our main goal is to have healthy kids," O'Malley said. "From this event we hope to raise a minimum of $100,000. We have found out that nearly 60 percent of the children in western Wayne County (pre-school and younger) have not been properly immunized."

O'Malley said that percentage is surprising because Wayne County provides free immunizations each year for children.

"Either the message about the immunizations is not getting out there or mothers/parents do not have the transportation to get there," O'Malley said. "We want to provide that vehicle to mothers and parents."

"We would like to establish a mobile health care vehicle that will deliver the services to the people who need them in the community."

In western Wayne County the infant mortality rate is well above the national average, according to Dr. Neelam Kumar, an Annapolis Foundation trustee who is a co-chairperson for the Bids for Kids event.

"There is a big need out there for pre-natal care," Kumar said. "We believe that together with the medical staff and employees from Annapolis, the Foundation and the community, we can assist those individuals who need help but don't know where to get it."

The major problem is not the lack of services offered, according to Kumar, but the lack of understanding that all children must be immunized before the age of 5 and that prenatal care should be the highest priority for a parent.

"Right now Bids for Kids is just for our area here," said Mary Chames, co-chairperson for Bids. "A larger-scale project is definitely a consideration."

Various items are being donated by the surrounding community for the auction. There will also be a raffle where participants could win a trip.

"We're very enthusiastic about this program," O'Malley said. "We hope to raise enough funds in order to provide the proper amount of education and services so that children in the Annapolis Hospital area are immunized."

An individual reservation for the event is $50. Cost for a couple is $100. For ticket or donation information call Annapolis Hospital at 467-2534.

Mary Chames (left), co-chairperson for Bids, Dr. Neelam Kumar, an Annapolis Foundation trustee and co-chairperson for Bids and Carla O'Malley, senior vice president and chief operating officer for Annapolis invite all western Wayne County residents to the Bids for Kids event Oct. 15 at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza in Romulus. MURDER

Sept. 12 in an out county court. Steiner was found wrapped in a mattress on Belle Isle. He was clothed, but had no identification, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"This incident occurred in the mid-morning hours of Sept. 3," Drews said. "Mr. Steiner was strangled in his own home in Wayne."

"He was then transported to still building homes somewhere." In the fall of 1990, the Hoaglands discovered that they had an inadequate foundation un-

After conferring with them, James proceeded to ask the witness questions. "Do you know where your feet are?" the judge asked. "Yes," replied the girl, again

Belle Isle and left there without any identification." A missing persons report was filed in Wayne after police received information about a body being found on Belle Isle. Drews said police were able to identify Steiner when his brother called to report him missing.

Drews was not able to release any of the details surrounding the death as much of the information is expected to be disclosed in court.

"This is a domestic problem," Drews said. "We are continuing our investigation." Drews said Johnson is a habitual criminal. Bond was not set for him at the arraignment or examination.

If the Romulus defendant is found guilty of first-degree murder, he could receive mandatory life in prison, according to Drews.

Funeral services for Steiner took place Sept. 13 at Lents Funeral Home in Wayne.

Drews requested that anyone with information about the incident contact the Wayne Police Department at 721-1414.

able cause" and that his client's arrest "was an improper arrest." Citing the People vs. Mosley, 400 MIC, 181 ruling, Magidson said the arrest "was a defective one" and, therefore, the subsequent statement made by his client should be tossed out.

James did not agree with the argument and asked McGruder to proceed.

O'Connell immediately requested that Henderson's statement to the police "only apply to Henderson and not used against my client, Rhea."

The court agreed.

McGruder read Henderson's and Rhea's statements into the court records.

According to the testimony, Rhea and Henderson were at the Rancho Motel with female companions when they decided to "find some money". Their statements further revealed that the two defendants drove down Middlebelt Road looking for someone to rob. They spotted a "white guy on Middlebelt" and Henderson ordered Rhea to stop.

The two men approached their victim and learned he

"He's gone. I've canceled the bitch."

Charles Henderson

didn't have any money and ordered him into the car. They drove back to the motel where the victim offered to help Henderson and Rhea pull off a break-in to get some money, according to the court testimony.

However, one of the two defendants apparently recognized their victim as someone they had been "in jail together."

Court testimony further revealed that Wrobbel was ordered to get into the defendant's vehicle. With Rhea driving, the trio went to the housing projects. There, Wrobbel was ordered out of the car and, despite pleas for his life, was shot and killed. "Please don't kill me," Wrobbel begged, according to testimony in the court.

Henderson put his arm around the white guy," according to Rhea's statement to police, "and Man (a nickname for Henderson) take him away."

When Henderson came back, Rhea asked Henderson, what happened.

"He's gone," Henderson reportedly said. "I've canceled the bitch."

Because there were apparently conflicting statements made to the police by the defendants on who actually fired the murder weapon, the defendants had been asked take polygraph tests. The tests were administered by the State Police.

O'Connell argued that Rhea's statement was coerced, that police had threatened him that if he didn't confess his girlfriend would also be arrested. She also pointed out that four days after Rhea's arrest, he was held in custody in the Inkster Police Jail without the benefit of legal counsel.

"On two different occasions he (Rhea) asked for an attorney," O'Connell continued, "he was refused one."

"Not to my knowledge," McGruder answered.

Wrobbel's family was sitting in the courtroom during the testimony. They were not available for comment after the court proceedings.

FOOD EVOLUTION

Dieting in the 90's can include pudding, cookies and shakes

It's a sign of the times when parents are no longer telling their children not to eat too many cookies but are stocking the kitchen shelves with fat-free, sugar-free and cholesterol-free brownies, cakes and candies.

It's the evolution of dieting, eating healthy by making smart choices about what the body needs without having to compromise taste.

Kristine Larson Clark, Ph.D., R.D., the director of sports nutrition and an assistant professor in the nutrition department at Penn State University, recently visited the Associated Newspapers to discuss how dieting trends have changed within the last 40 years.

Clark also took a stroll through the grocery aisles showing what the average family can buy that will be healthy and fun.

In the 1950s, stars such as Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield were personified as having the "ideal" female figure, according to Clark.

"In the last 40 years both exercise and diet have changed," Clark said. "In the 1950s, the Marilyn Monroe full-figured body image was in. So, dieting was not something men or women were really focusing on at that time."

"Statistics show that less than 5 percent of women were dieting in the 1950s, and 80 percent of men were satisfied with their weight."

When did the bulge start to be a concern for everyone? In the 1960s fashion model "Twiggy" opened Pandora's Box with the image that thinner is better.

"All of a sudden, everyone thought 'I have to diet', and they thought in order to diet and lose weight they needed to starve and deprive themselves," Clark said. "As we moved into the 1970s and 1980s, food and nutrition became a symbol of getting healthy."

The birth of detailed labeling of a variety of food items also took place during that decade, according to Clark.

"We started to teach people to read nutrition labels and look at ingredients," Clark said. "That was the first time that getting healthy meant looking at what you ate."

"A strong link evolved between diet and disease prevention and diet and health. Fat in the 1980s got targeted as a nutrient to really cut back on."

In the 1990s, there has been an emergence of the fit, strong and healthy male and female which is coupled with exercise as a way of life instead of a trend or fad.

"In the 1990s there are choices," Clark said. "Back in 1980 there were only 14,000 food items on a grocery-store shelves. Today there are 30,000 items."

"So we have seen in the last decade an emergence of food, and part of that is due to the consumers requesting low fat, reduced fat, low sugar foods."

Have the tastebuds changed then? No, only the demand for quality healthy food has increased, Clark said.

"What has changed is we have been able to deliver great tasting foods that support people in their weight-loss goals," Clark said.

As a nutritionist, Clark said she has come across various scientific studies that show new low-calorie foods do keep people on diets to lose weight as a lifestyle change.

"Dieting is a lifestyle now for many people," Clark said. "Today you have calorie-reduced yogurt, sugar-free pudding and a wide variety of snacks you have always enjoyed but are now available with reduced calories and low sugar."

Clark works with athletes predominately at Penn State University, and she said she has 80 percent of the athletes wanting to lose weight.

"Today I can give them great-tasting food choices, and they still get to cut back on calories," Clark said.

"One of the food selections I promote is yogurt because it is high in calcium and protein but has less calories and sugar."

Are liquid diets or diet food bars healthy?

"They certainly can be healthy, but they can also be extremely boring," Clark said.

"The idea is not to exclusively eat one food. That concept of dieting is fading out."

"It's the indefinite concept of losing weight and keeping it off that is 'the' 1990s concept."

In order to shed the unnecessary pounds for a lifetime, taking a look at exercise and eating patterns is just the beginning, according to Clark.

"One of the things I recommend is to write down what you eat for three days," Clark said. "Look at it carefully, and learn what your eating patterns are because most of us don't vary our patterns too much except for holidays."

From that list, a change of eating habits can be made, according to Clark.

"It doesn't mean cutting out, it means changing what you eat," Clark said. "Let's say someone is eating a cereal every morning that is high in calories and sugar."

"With so many cereals out there, people can make a change to a high fiber and low calorie diet. They can also put an alternative sugar on the cereal to get that same sweet taste."

Skim milk is also recommended by Clark instead of whole milk in order to reduce calories by getting rid of the fat.

"In fact, skim milk is higher in protein than the other milk forms," Clark said. "Another example would be lunch. Today there are foods that are nutritious, fun and very fast that you can grab out of a grocery store or off your shelf such as sugar-free cookies or any fruits and vegetables that are sometimes lacking in our diets."

Clark recommends looking for the little Nutrasweet swirl on food products because it provides instant information as to that product being low in calories and having good taste.

"Another tip I give my clients, is grab a shopping cart and shop the outside of the aisles looking for fresh fruits and vegetables, low-fat dairy products and low-fat meats," Clark said. "You also have to get your portion of grains."

Is the old concept of eating at night really bad for one's health?

"It not necessarily is, but we have this concept that we're going to eat at night but not tell

Kristine Larson Clark is setting the pace for dieting in the 1990s. She is a firm believer that you can have fun while losing the pounds. Clark has run three marathons and is a competitive biathlete. A/P photo by DIVIZIO/Chief photographer

Romulus man receives short-term sentence for murder

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Records Court Judge Harvey Tennen stunned a murder victim's family and sheriff's officers Wednesday, when he imposed a two-and-one-half to 15 year sentence for convicted Romulus murderer Daniel Ray Dowling.

Sources close to the case said a light sentence was expected, since Dowling's lawyer had entered a plea of no contest to second degree murder in the shooting death of Joanne Lincoln, but the announced sentence was much lighter than even they expected.

Dowling's lawyer had entered the plea as part of the Crash the Docket program, which is being conducted to alleviate the heavy court docket load in Wayne County.

As part of the plea agreement, Dowling was permitted to select the sentencing judge and Tennen was the judge selected by the defense.

Lincoln was shot in the head in the bedroom of a Romulus apartment that she shared with Dowling in 1978.

Wayne County Sheriff's detectives investigated the killing, since Romulus had no police department at the time. Sheriff's officers said Dowling was questioned at the time of the shooting on Aug. 28, 1978, but no charges were filed at that time.

Lincoln died several days after the shooting. Dowling at the time claimed the shot came from outside a window of their apartment, sheriff's detectives said.

Dowling later moved to Virginia, married and opened an auto-related business. Last fall a mutual friend of the defendant and victim told Wayne County Sheriff's detectives that Dowling admitted the fatal shooting to him, claiming it was the climax of an argument over a request for oral sex.

Dowling drove to Romulus for his arraignment in February and was slated to go to trial on Nov. 2.

When the no contest plea was entered, a sentencing date was set for Sept. 9. It was delayed first until Sept. 14 and then to Sept. 22.

Local opposition mounts against Free Trade agreement

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

As the "big guns" line up on both sides of the North American Free Trade (NAFTA) agreement, local voices are adding their comments to the controversy.

If approved by Congress, the free trade treaty would virtually eliminate all barriers to trade and investment in the United States, Mexico and Canada in the next 15 years, creating the largest free trade zone in the world.

Congressman William Ford, D-13, a staunch opponent of the proposal, calls it "an unmitigated disaster for the workers, communities and economy of Michigan and the industrial Midwest," and also voiced his objection to it as a "second-class treatment of workers' interests."

Joining the opposition are Senator Don Riegel, House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt and Texas billionaire Ross Perot. On the other side of the issue, former Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca has stepped on the band wagon to support President Bill Clinton's support of the agreement.

"What we want is fair trade, not free trade," said Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakoces, who proposed a resolution opposing NAFTA at the Sept. 21 board meeting.

Jakoces said a trade mission which was sent to Mexico found workers living in cardboard boxes near polluted steams. He said tests revealed every known contaminant was found in one of the steams tested.

Following his presentation, the township board approved a resolution opposing NAFTA, which because "it will cost Michigan jobs, and further undermine the economic stability of our state." It also stated that foreign countries have inappropriate environmental controls which will eventually result in tremendous remediation costs, and those costs will be passed on to consumers, further damaging the economy and the health of the workers and the surrounding area.

The resolution emphasized support of "fair" trade, not free trade, by the township board.

A similar resolution was adopted by the Sumpter Township Board, Supervisor Marvin Banotai recommended that residents write to their legislators to express their opposition to NAFTA.

Although no official position was taken on NAFTA by the Belleville City Council, Mayor Glenn Silvenis spoke out against it at the Sept. 20 council meeting.

Silvenis said those at the bottom of the economic scale will suffer most when jobs move to Mexico.

"We need to look at the total picture. We can only re-train so many people for so many jobs," Silvenis said. "Door (to jobs) will slam and the jobs will go to Mexico."
